

En Pointe Enhances Symantec Security Practice

New dedicated team of Symantec consultants reinforces En Pointe's commitment to delivering quality security consulting services to customers

Los Angeles, CA - May 6, 2010 – En Pointe Technologies, a national provider of Information Technology (IT) products and services, announced today that it has established a dedicated Security Consulting Practice in order to better focus on information security solutions.

"Our customers are looking for more value from their partners," commented Bob Din, CEO of En Pointe. "We have started taking steps to establish our leadership in security. The establishment of En Pointe's security consulting practice highlights our continuing commitment to improving our customers' experience—from pre-sales, throughout implementation and post-sales."

In 2006, En Pointe was recognized as Symantec's Partner of the Year. Since then, the company has continued to differentiate itself by being one of the very few enterprise level partners that can provide both license expertise and service delivery capabilities to customers nationwide.

En Pointe has been offering its customers security monitoring services through a worldwide network of security operation centers (SOC's). En Pointe is making a significant investment in increasing its number of consultants and security engineers who can deliver Symantec services. The new team will provide a number of Symantec consulting services including risk assessments, compliance consulting and remediation.

Among En Pointe's security solutions, the following are closely aligned with Symantec solutions:

- Compliance and Security
- Data Loss Prevention
- Endpoint Management
- Foundational Enterprise Security
- Managed Security Services
- Symantec Hosted Services
