

Major West Coast Manufacturer Outsources Service Desk and End User Services to En Pointe Technologies

Los Angeles, CA – January 24, 2007 – A major West Coast manufacturer with operating facilities throughout the western United States, including several facilities on the East Coast has signed a multi-year agreement for En Pointe Technologies (NASDAQ: ENPT) to provide continuous 24x7 service desk, end user support, hardware and software maintenance, install/move/add/change, and managed rollout services.

Under the terms of the agreement, En Pointe will assume responsibility for managing all aspects and associated service levels of the service desk. Service desk includes full help desk support for end user issues as well as a single point of contact for all IT related services.

“As this customer celebrates one hundred years in operation, its rapid expansion drove the decision to modernize and consolidate support with one strategic partner. We are proud to bring forward the benefits and economies of our integrated and scalable service model,” said Bob Din, CEO of En Pointe, who further added, “We continue to invest and position our Company in the growth areas of a changing IT industry, and with our evolving business model, we are poised for long-term success that will benefit all of our customers.”

“This new engagement requires rapid development, testing and deployment of critical management processes, and is a testimonial to our ability to integrate complex managed service solutions,” said Richard Emil, Vice President of Service for En Pointe.
